

The National Law Review Announces its 2022 “Go-To Thought Leader” Award Recipients, Honoring Excellence in Legal News and Analysis

The 2022 “Go-To Thought Leadership Awards” recognizes 75 exceptional authors and legal organizations for their reporting of complex legislative and litigation news, as well as legal industry trends. The recipients were selected by the National Law Review’s editors from a pool of thousands of contributed legal news and analysis articles and highlight the unique talents of less than 1% of our contributing authors.

CHICAGO (PRWEB) December 19, 2022 -- The National Law Review (NLR) “Go-To Thought Leadership Awards” recognizes 75 exceptional authors and legal organizations for their reporting of complex legislative and litigation news, as well as their strategic insight and overall industry knowledge. Less than 1% of the National Law Review contributing authors are recognized each year.

Jennifer Schaller, Managing Director of the National Law Review:

"This is the fifth year we've recognized exceptional contributing authors and with such a vast pool of talented writers, it's tough to choose. The NLR is one of the more discerning legal publications, so our editors looked for contributors who demonstrated exceptional expertise in their legal specialty."

Chandler Ford, the National Law Review's Editorial Manager:

“After reviewing thousands of contributed articles, some authors stand out as offering NLR readers exceptionally insightful and useful legal analysis and consistently draft content that gets the attention of both readers and other publications. We are extremely grateful for all of our contributors throughout the year, and thank them for their ongoing dedication to producing the highest quality of thought leadership.”

This year we recognized authors in over 30 categories ranging from Antitrust Law to Whistleblower News. Please join us in congratulating the National Law Review 2022 Go-To Thought Leader Leadership Awards recipients:
